

AFFAIRS OF THE DISTRICT.

A Church Asks for the Waiving of a Building Regulation.

The Commissioners authorize Public Work through the Engineer Department—Permission to Quarry Stone on the Canal Road Granted.

The District Commissioners today referred to their Attorney the application of William J. Palmer, of Ninth and F Streets northwest, who requested that the building regulations be waived in the construction of the Enon Baptist Church. The special section which Mr. Palmer asked to have waived was that requiring the use of fireproof construction up to and including the auditorium floor. Mr. Palmer stated that the church in question is to be located on C Street, between Sixth and Seventh Streets southeast.

In reporting upon the application, the Inspector of Buildings states that, according to the regulations, the fireproof material must be used in the proposed building, although it is in close proximity to the ground, and has no fireproofing. The Inspector states that the regulations provide for no exceptions.

Acting upon the advice of George F. Green, Water Registrar, the Commissioners have voted not to grant the request of Thomas Hyde for permission to use one water service for two houses on Thirtieth Street northwest.

The Commissioners today authorized the issue of the following orders relative to the work of the Engineer Department: That cement sidewalk be laid and curb reset on the south side of Massachusetts Avenue northwest, between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, abutting reservation No. 6, at an estimated cost of $67, chargeable to the appropriation for sidewalks and curbs under public reservations.

That School Street, Mount Pleasant, from its south end to Park Street be macadamized at an estimated cost of $1,228, chargeable to the appropriation for repairs to roads.

That the proposal of Pavarini & Greer (No. 1) received June 15, 1901, as modified by their supplemental proposal of June 24, 1901, to construct a four-room school building on lots 61 to 68, block 5, Kenilworth, complete for the sum of $22,515, including stone arches over main entrance and stone name-panel, and moided bricks for arches over windows, and using red stone trimmings, is hereby accepted.

That the proposal (No. 1) of Gleason & Humphrey, received June 15, 1901, as modified by their supplemental proposal of June 24, 1901, to construct a four-room school building on lots 47 to 51, inclusive, block 4, Twining City, including stone arches over main entrance and stone name-panel, and the use of red stone trimmings, for the sum of $22,540, is hereby accepted.

That Mr. William M. Curtis is hereby appointed chairman in the Engineer Department at $25 per day, vice W. H. Spier who declined appointment.

That a telephone be installed in the residence of Captain Chester Harding, assistant to the Engineer Commissioner, at 2025 Q Street northwest.

That the death notice provided for in the appropriation bill of the District for the fiscal year 1901 be constructed by day labor under the direction of the Superintendent of Repairs at an estimated cost of about $50.

That catch basins be constructed at the northeast and northwest corners of Decatur Place and Twenty-second Street, with the necessary outlet sewer, at an estimated cost of catch basins of $130, chargeable to the appropriation for main and pipe sewers, 1902, and of outlet sewer along the north side of Decatur Place between Florida Avenue and Twenty-second Street, $1,230, chargeable to the appropriation for suburban sewers, 1902.

Following the recommendation of Major Sylvester, the Commissioners have voted to grant the application of Daniel Crumbaugh for permission to quarry stone on the Canal Road about two miles above Georgetown. The Commissioners have stipulated in the permit that due caution is to be taken to prevent accidents and the destruction of property.

The Commissioners have approved the recommendations of the officials of the Reform School for Girls, that Frank E. Jacobs be appointed assistant engineer, vice Fraser resigned; that Misses Edes Varing and Nedra Delany be appointed instructors in industries, to take effect July 1, 1901.

Want the Pneumatic Tubes.
NEW YORK, June 28.—The Merchants' Association has mailed 14,000 copies of a circular to business men in the city concerning the disservice of the pneumatic tube service. Forms of complaint to the postmaster of this city and the Merchants' Association were also sent, so that a record may be kept for use in Congress next winter. The association believes that the discontinuance of the service will cause great delay in the mails.

Death of Andrew Allan.
MONTREAL, June 28.—Andrew Allan, head of the Allan Steamship Company, died at his residence in this city last night. His death was due to old age and general debility.

Wholesome Advice

For People Whose Stomachs are Weak and Digestion Poor.

Dr. Harlandson, whose opinion in diseases is worthy of attention, says when a man or woman comes to me complaining of indigestion, loss of appetite, sour stomach, belching, sour watery rising, head-aches, sleeplessness, lack of ambition, and a general run down nervous condition, I advise them to take after each meal one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing the tablet to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the food eaten. The result is that the food is speedily digested and thus made into nourishment. These tablets will digest the food anyway whether the stomach is weak or not, because they contain harmless digestive principles, vegetable essences, pepsin, and Golden Seal, which supply just what the weak stomach lacks.

I have advised the tablets with great success, both in curing indigestion and to build up the tissues, increasing flesh in thin nervous patients, whose real trouble was dyspepsia, and as soon as the stomach was put to rights they did not know what sickness was.

A recent package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be bought at any drug store, and as they are not a secret patent medicine, they can be used as often as desired with full assurance that they contain nothing harmful. In the slightest doubt, on the contrary, anyone whose stomach is at all deranged will find great benefit from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They will cure any form of stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach.

Absolutely Clean

In the Schlitz brewery cleanliness is carried to extremes. We do more than is necessary to be certain of doing enough.

The caldrons in which the beer is brewed are kept scrupulously clean and covered. The air in which the beer is cooled is filtered.

The barrels in which it is stored are cleaned with steam and soda, then glazed with rosin on the inside, then cleaned again. The bottles are cleaned with utmost precaution.

Still we filter the beer, then sterilize every bottle, for the slightest uncleanliness taints the whole product. It is in these ways that Schlitz beer has gained its reputation for purity, and made Milwaukee famous.

LABOR DAY PROGRAMMES.

Celebrations Planned by the Local Workingmen.

The Trades Unionists to Have an Outing at Glen Echo. While the Knights Will Picnic at Marshall Hall—Brief History of the Holiday.

The members of local labor organizations have already begun preparations for the celebration of Labor Day, the first Monday in September. The observance of the day in this jurisdiction will be confined to excursions arranged by the local central labor bodies, instead of by street parades as is the custom in nearly all the large cities in the country.

Not since the year after the first Monday in September was made a legal holiday in the District has Labor Day been celebrated in Washington by a street parade by local organized labor. The observance of the day as a general holiday was inaugurated by the labor unions in the State of New York in 1882. Soon after, the day was made a legal holiday by act of the State Legislature. The influence of organized labor was brought to bear on the legislative bodies in other States, until now the first Monday in September is recognized as a legal holiday in more than forty States and Territories.

It was not until 1894, however, that Congress took action on the petition of local labor leaders and an act was passed making the day a legal holiday in the District of Columbia. At that time the celebration of a few individual trades unionist organizations, all the labor bodies in the District were under the banner of the Knights of Labor. Even those organizations which by reason of their affiliations, were not associated with the central body of the Knights of Labor, were on the friendly terms with the Knights, and in 1894 joined with them in the first observance of Labor Day as a general holiday in the District.

That year the day which is recognized as the workman's national holiday was celebrated by a street parade in which the combined forces of the Knights of Labor and the trades unionists participated. About 7,000 members of organized labor were in line, the members of each organization being dressed in a uniform adopted for the occasion. The parade was held in the morning and afterward several of the organizations held picnics at the pleasure resorts on the Potomac, or in the suburbs of Washington.

In the spring of 1895, discussions among the local organizations resulted in the Central Labor Union, a central body composed of representatives of the local unions, upholding the trades unionist sentiment of the wage-earners in the District. That year the Knights of Labor did not participate in the street parade as did the trades unionists, but spent the day with their families and friends at Marshall Hall, where a big picnic was held.

The year following neither the trades unionists nor the Knights of Labor held street parades. Since then parades, so far as organized labor is concerned, are things of the past.

Each year since 1896, the Knights of Labor have celebrated Labor Day in an outing to Marshall Hall, and the unions affiliated with the Central Labor Union have spent the day at River View.

The trades unionists, however, will not go to River View this year, but have decided to spend the day at Glen Echo, while the Knights of Labor will again go to Marshall Hall.

The Building Trades Council is making arrangements to observe Labor Day in an appropriate manner, but has not as yet chosen the place where its members and friends will spend the day.

HURLED FROM A SCAFFOLD.
Two Workmen Killed and Three Seriously Injured at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 28.—By the breaking of a scaffold five men were thrown eighty feet to the ground at the Eastern elevator yesterday afternoon. William Krause and John Kief were killed. William Edwards, James Corbett, and William Johnson were injured seriously and Edwards will probably die.

The men were rebuilding the elevator, which was burned five months ago. Fourteen of them were on the scaffold when the middle collapsed. Those at the ends saved themselves by catching on to the supports.

ATLANTIC CITY MORALS.

No More Whisky Will Be Sold There on Sunday.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 28.—What has long been looked forward to as the most remote of possibilities has at last come to pass. In brief, Atlantic City, where for many years public sentiment has dictated the free and unrestricted sale of liquor on Sunday despite all laws, will be "dry." This almost astounding information was made public last evening by Mayor Stoy, upon his return from Trenton, where he had a lengthy conference on the subject with Supreme Court Justice Hendrickson, of the First judicial District. Several days ago Mayor Stoy received an official notification from Justice Hendrickson that the Sunday sale of liquor in Atlantic City must be stopped.

Rumors that such orders might be expected had already begun to stir the city, and when it became known that the mayor had actually received the long-expected and much-feared order, the hotel men were at last aroused from a state of imaginary security.

Mayor Stoy went to Trenton yesterday and satisfied himself fully that public sentiment can no longer govern the problem of Sunday observance. The supplement to the Crimes act, passed by the Legislature at its last session, for the special abolition of gambling at Long Branch, applies with just as much force to the saloons on Sunday as to gambling, and Mayor Stoy is obliged to enforce the law, despite public opinion and every other consideration, or render himself liable to punishment for misdemeanor.

The mayor will issue his orders to the police tonight. Mayor Stoy went to Trenton for the special purpose of learning positively the situation of affairs, in so far as Atlantic City is concerned. He found Justice Hendrickson at the State House, and informed the justice of the peculiar situation of affairs that would result from strict suppression of the sale of liquor, perhaps more injurious here than anywhere else in the State. "I found the justice firmly settled in his determination to carry out the law," said the mayor. "He informed me that there was absolutely no possibility of any exceptions being made; that the laws are upon the statute books and must be enforced; that I must close the saloons in Atlantic City on Sundays and keep them closed; that his oath of office made it obligatory upon him to enforce the law so long as it remained a law, and that he will insist upon it in every portion of his district so long as he remains upon the bench."

"Justice Hendrickson expressed the opinion," continued the mayor, "that the closing of the saloons will not prove as detrimental as seems to be the popular opinion, but will rather increase the tone of the resort, and bring a better class of people here. He jokingly told me that my connection with the enforcement of Sunday closing would increase my political popularity. The mayor went on: 'But I was compelled to force to take exceptions to this, and am happy that I have no further aspirations of that kind.'"

Mayor Stoy broached the subject of Sunday amusements on Justice Hendrickson's statement that the supplement to the Crimes act, which requires the Supreme Court justice to demand the enforcement of all sections of the act, and compels mayors and police officials to carry out such orders under penalty of indictment themselves, does not mention Sunday amusements, and that this matter must be regulated by municipal authorities. The justice gave expression to the opinion that the old blue laws were less burdensome than the new ones.

The justice is a trustee of the Ocean Grove Camp-meeting Association and a trustee of Pennington Seminary, as well.

The mayor said frankly that he regretted extremely the turn affairs have taken. He believes, however, that the freedom with which saloon privileges have been granted is very largely responsible. Personally, he would prefer that public sentiment should gradually solve the problem, but now that the courts have ordered the enforcement of a statutory law, he is bound to execute the same.

The supplement of the Crimes act, which the mayor has been ordered to enforce, specifically provides that, if the chief police official be the offender in neglect or refusal, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Mr. Beveridge is simply what David Copperfield found himself to be on a recorded occasion—he is very young. "Misrepresent nothing. No permanent success was ever built upon a foundation of fraud."

(MUST POSSESS TRUE MERIT) Every successful enterprise has had its idea. It has stood for something; it meant something. The idea has been the soul of it, the power of it, the substance of it.

Peter Cooper had an idea, broad and liberal philanthropy. Wagner had an idea, the expression of thought in music; Dickens had an idea, the uplifting of the working classes; Gutenberg had an idea, Bible publishing; Abraham Lincoln had an idea, the preservation of the Union. The idea of this practice is simple, but wonderful in its power. Nothing is misrepresented; nothing is hidden but the truth.

(CROWNED WITH SUCCESS) The Rice practice has been a series of splendid achievements. In the treatment of stubborn diseases is well known to the hundreds of who have been cured. What has been done for others can be done even better for those still in need of help.

If those who are afflicted will only listen to these words and take advantage of this opportunity, the Rice practice will cure patients whose names have appeared in these columns, there will be no further necessity for calling attention to these facts.

An avalanche of proof awaits those who will call at the offices, or who will write to the cured patients whose names are open to all. No physician, or medical officer, or such a vast practice, nor the means for securing one, as the Rice Medical Society, nor has any other medical office performed so many wonderful cures.

(FREE FOR ONE FULL MONTH) The Rice physicians realize that the wrong teaching on the subjects of Catarrh, La Grippe, Diphtheria, Consumption, Blood, Skin, Stomach, and other Germ diseases has been far-reaching in its effects.

They realize that there are incredulous persons who are to be won over to the new methods only by actual experience. They propose, therefore, to make plain the facts in a very simple manner, by every means consistent with propriety and professional courtesy.
